Nicola Cox : Bridge Player's Supper Book (MASTER BRIDGE) before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Bridge Player's Supper Book (MASTER BRIDGE):

Millions of people of all ages play bridge and what better way to spend the perfect evening than supper with friends and bridge. And what could be better than to have a special selection of the delicious recipes by Nicola Cox, originally published in her celebrated books Good Food from Farthinghoe and Country Cooking from Farthinghoe. The recipes have been carefully chosen so that they do not involve a lot of last-minute activity when one would prefer to be playing bridge. The dishes are arranged in groups from soups to puddings via a selection of delectable pts, mousses, salads, vegetable dishes and main courses.

About the Author Nicola Cox lives in the small village of Farthinghoe in Northamptonshire , where she created two of her celebrated books: Good Food from Farthinghoe and Country Cooking from Farthinghoe. In 1986 Nicola won The Sunday Times Best Cook in Britain award. In 1975 she and her husband, Simon, founded Farthinghoe Fine Wine Ltd, which is now run by one of their sons, Alex.
