Stephen Osborne : South Bend Ghosts: Other Northern Indiana Haunts before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised South Bend Ghosts: Other Northern Indiana Haunts:

Take a haunted journey to discover the ghosts and legends of South Bend and northern Indiana. Meet the ghosts of football great George Gipp, that still haunts his old stomping grounds at Notre Dame University and the infamous Belle Gunness, who murdered over 40 people at her LaPorte farmhouse. Feel goose bumps rise as you learn of a ghostly girl, that hangs from the bell tower at St. Mary's College. Enjoy a meal at Tippecanoe Place Restaurant, where a ghost may pass right through you, and stay at the Inn at Aberdeen, where you may come face-to-face with the spirit of a playful little girl ghost! Haunted roads, unexplained lights on the horizon, a house that possesses those who dare reside there, and even phantom felines await you in South Bend and the surrounding area.

About the Author Stephen Osborne, a graduate of Purdue University, has loved ghost stories all his life, having been introduced to spooky movies at an early age. He resides in Indianapolis with two cats and Jadzia the Wonder Dog.
