My grandfather did a few magic tricks for me when I was 4-5 years old. I've been fascinated by magic and magicians ever since. I remember seeing the TV shows, The Art of Magic, on PBS 10 years ago or so. The show was a lot of fun, giving a whirlwind overview of the history of magic, going back to ancient civilizations thru the 1990s. I have been looking for a copy of the companion book for many years, and was delighted to find it last week on . I enjoy the history, the pictures, and the stories told by many contemporary magicians. Highly recommended for magic fans and collectors.

Glad I bought this book to accompany the VHS.

Featuring exclusive contributions written by some of the world's greatest living prestidigitators, this volume examines the power of magic to entertain and mesmerize. A companion to the epic three-part PBS series airing in February 1998. 200 illustrations, many in color .
