This #1 best-seller, The Betting Black Book: Winning Sports Betting Data on All FBS Coaches, 2016-2017 College Football Edition, details the betting history of all 128 active FBS college football coaches. Ten years of college football betting data are synthesized and made simple for both the professional and amateur sports bettor to access every coach's against-the-spread tendencies. Know how each coach's team has performed against-the-spread: As big and small favorites and underdogs In home, away, and bowl games In conference and non-conference games In the first game of the season After a bye week, and so much more If you are a data-driven college football bettor, then you will not want to place another bet without first consulting this book.

About the Author Steve Gotkin is an American college football analyst, journalist, #1 best-selling author, public speaker, sports bettor (who only wagers real money on college football), founder of CollegeFootballWinning.com, and fund manager of a private sports-betting investment fund. He is a former mentor teacher, high school football coach, and national education consultant. Steve is a member of the National Football Foundation, the Intercollegiate Football Researchers Association, and the Football Writers Association of America (FWAA). A committed learner, Steve attended Oxford University, the University of Chicago, the University of Southern California (USC), UCLA, Northwestern University, Lake Forest College, and Montclair State University, earning his B.A. in philosophy from USC and his M.A. from Montclair State in teaching philosophy to children. Steve has been featured in a variety of national and international media (including ESPN radio). He was the featured speaker at McGraw-Hills 2015 Statistics Symposium, San Diego State University's Sports MBA class, Stanford University, and Wake Forest University- each time speaking on the subject of applying analytics to sports betting. More than one hundred of Steve's articles on sports betting have been published. He also has a fantasy sports patent (pending). He lives in Las Vegas, Nevada, and in a state of ketosis.
