From Routledge : The Biographical Encyclopedia of American Radio before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised The Biographical Encyclopedia of American Radio:

0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Comprehensive Review of Radio in America By DKK Christopher Sterling has provided a comprehensive review of radio in the U.S., adding to his impressive collection of publications on broadcasting. This book includes a wealth of information and is an excellent resource. There is one small error on page 61 regarding William Conrad. Sterling mentions that Conrad attended "Fullerton Junior College" and adds in parentheses "now California State University Fullerton." This is not accurate -- Fullerton College is a two-year community college with an outstanding radio program. California State University Fullerton is a four-year university (not far from Fullerton College), with a bachelor's degree program in Radio-TV. However, the emphasis of the CSUF program is on television and film -- not radio. Fullerton College opened as "Fullerton Junior College" in 1913 and changed its name to "Fullerton College" in 1972. Fullerton College is celebrating its Centennial year in 2013 -- see
